Keymacro is a small application that emulates keyboard shortcuts and allows them to be used in a normal dialog. Keyboard shortcuts are very powerful tools for cutting down on mouse movements and increasing the speed and efficiency of the application. Keymacro Key/Button combination Description: Press this combination to turn off/on the keys. You can use the combination of buttons on the keyboard to quickly open the shortcut dialog. Windows 7: Use Ctrl-Shift-

Space for this action. Description: The history of desktop icons can be confusing. How did icons become so important to Windows? Desktop icons were a pain to add and remove, but they were also a pain to see. If you use Windows 7, you can hide all of your icons to make your desktop cleaner and more convenient. You can also rearrange them, remove them, or create your own custom desktop icons. Desktop icons for Windows Vista If you have Windows Vista, icons are much more difficult to use. Windows Vista has the concept of "folder." If you don't create a folder, you're probably not using your desktop as efficiently as you could. Windows Vista also introduces a new concept called "taskbar." A taskbar appears on the bottom edge of your screen. If you hide the icons from your desktop, you'll be left with no more information on your desktop than a grid of icons. Making Windows Vista icons disappear To make your icons go away, right-click on the desktop, select Properties, and then click the View tab. Make sure that "Hide icons from this display" is enabled. You can also use the desktop folder icon to clear up your desktop. Arrange desktop icons You can move desktop icons with the keyboard, too. Press the left Windows key and move the mouse to the icon you want to move. A window will pop up showing the window title and location. Press the left mouse button to drag the icon into the location you want. You can also drag and drop the folder icon onto the desktop to rearrange it. Just click the icon to reset it to its original location. In Windows 7, the desktop folder icon doesn't exist anymore. Description: One of the fastest methods to hide all of your unused desktop icons is to simply right-click on the desktop, select "Properties," and then select the "view" tab. Then, make
