KEYMACRO is a command line based program that allows you to create 'macro' files for use with any application. The two ways that you can use them are as follows: Add a macro file to an existing application. The files are then called and typed after being selected by the user, and if you ever want to edit a macro file, you can do it by opening the file with KEYMACRO and editing it. Create a new application from a macro file. This allows you to give your users an easy and quick way to create new applications without being dependent on any other applications, like Microsoft Word. All the commands are easily typed from a file containing the macro commands. This is an excellent piece of freeware which lets you modify your existing applications with no need to leave the working environment of your choice. Best freebie app here! The Ottawa Senators announced today that David Dziurzynski has been named the team's new head coach, while assistant coach Marc Crawford has been named the head coach of the AHL club, the Binghamton Senators. Dziurzynski becomes the third coach in Binghamton's history, following Don Davison (2008-12) and Keith McCambridge (2011-12). He will assume the duties on a full-time basis, as his previous duties as assistant coach only included a brief one-day stint in June. Dziurzynski spent seven years as the associate coach in Binghamton, a tenure that included a pair of Calder Cup championship appearances. He also served as a pro scout for the Ottawa Senators and their AHL affiliate from 2006-09. "David has a wealth of experience that will allow us to play a style of game that will be in the best interests of our players," Senators general manager Bryan Murray said in a statement. The 55-year-old native of Oakville, Ontario, has plenty of ties to Ottawa. He played four seasons with the Senators organization, appearing in 111 games with Ottawa's AHL affiliate in Binghamton. Dziurzynski also served as a scout for the Los Angeles Kings and Anaheim Ducks from 2002-07, helping the Ducks win the Stanley Cup in 2007. In the second round of the 2003 NHL Draft, the Senators selected Dziurzynski with the 53rd overall pick. He was traded to the San Jose Sharks in 2008, before becoming an assistant coach in Binghamton in 2009-10. Crawford is a member of a long and storied hockey tradition, as he's the brother of former New York Rangers goaltender coach Robb Crawford. His playing career included a stint with the Oilers and Islanders. He served as the head coach of the AHL's Binghamton Senators from 2011-12 and also guided the Binghamton Devils for three seasons. The 53-year-old Winnipeg native has been a pro scout
