To create a virtual olfactory reflection illusion, we systematically varied the reflection and mask positions in the fMRI experiment. Psychophysical and functional magnetic resonance imaging (fMRI) measurements (n = 20) demonstrated a subject-specific illusion, reflected by an enhancement of neural activity in the olfactory processing regions, the olfactory bulb and the amygdala. The illusion size increased with stronger reflection and mask reflection, was more pronounced at the nostril level and was more pronounced with a closed nostril. Further analysis of the fMRI data revealed that the perception of the reflection increased with stronger mask reflection and weaker neural activity in the olfactory areas, as well as with weaker BOLD responses in these regions. Our results demonstrate that with the present experimental design, perceptual reorganization can be modeled in the human olfactory system.Q: Is this Apple page wrong about using tags? This article is about the iOS 9 features for sharing, but it's using the photo tag and the chat tag, and it's not limited to photos. It's not clear to me how that would work out. Does this page lead to sharing by chat? and what about photos? A: Text Sharing is not a new feature introduced in the OS X El Capitan. It was introduced in iOS 8.0. (In iOS 8.1, it was renamed to Personal Hotspot). See my answer here for a list of the differences. As shown in the image below, the two share screen options are: Text (one-way or two-way) Photos (one-way only)
